UNPRECEDENTED SUCCESS.

Carnaval de la Mer Without a Social Peer.

THOUSANDS IN ATTENDANCE NIGHTLY.

Some of the Features of Entertainment for the Coming Week-Personal Notes.

"Les extremes se toucheut" is an old saying, the truth of which can be proven in all positions and conditions of life.

A new illustration for it can be found in satting up of the German ship "Kaiser Wilhelm II" at the Carnaval de la Mer, where peace and war seem to be the closest friends

The Presbyterian ladies who have charge of the ship have for sale a number of photographs, among them very good likenes the Presbyterian ministers of the city, Drs. Hoge, Kerr. Fair, Jameson, Campbell and Little, and alongside of them portraits of the representatives of warriors of three generations, the German Emperors, William I, Prederick II and William II.

The one named last is the very image of his grandfather in all the ardent traits of character.

His first thought is the military and he is always planning for its improvement.

From early childhood up he has manifested the greatest interest in everything concerning the arms.

the greatest interest in everything concerning the army.

In this connection the mentioning of a little incident from his early life might perhaps not be without interest.

William was a boy about three or four years old, when at one time he was reported to his father for crying while he was being washed. His father, who was the Crown Prince, talked to the little fellow and endeavored to convince the boy that it was minimally to cry.

William did not heed the locture, and continued to indulage in his crying spells whenever he had to undergo the cleanaing process. Several days passed by and the Crown Prince did not even seem to pay any attention to William's behavior.

One bright morning, when the little fellow was taken out to his usual morning drive through the Thiergarten, he noticed that the guard did not turn out for him, as is the order, whenever a member of the royal family comes in sight.

William became highly indiguant and at whenever a member of the royal family comes in sight.

William became highly indiguant and at his return he insisted on being taken before his father.

There he related his experience, but the futher, who could hardly refrain from smiling, told him that the guard had not done anything wrong for no soldier should salute any one who was afraid of water. The remedy was effective, for William never cried after that.

THE CORNELOWER LEGEND. THE CORNFLOWER LEGEND.

It seems that the publication of the legend about the cornflower in last Tuesday's Tisres has created quite an interest among the visitors of the Carnaval, for Mrs. James Epps, who is in charge of the Fresbyterian ship, told the representative of The Tisres the other day, that frequently ladies came to her and asked her to show them the cornflower.

Mrs. Epps feels very proud in her vessel, on the designing of which she has worked very hard. Some very valuable assistance has been rendered her by Mr. Manfred Call, who is responsible for the rigging of the brig, which is actually the most perfect one of the seven ships.

About two weeks ago the lady had written to the German Empress, telling her about the proposed Carnaval and its object, and request-ing her to make a donation, no matter how ing her to linke a donation, to link the small.

Mrs. Epps is in hopes to receive an answer next week, and is confident that the Empress will grant her request.

The German ladies of this city have greatly assisted in the noble work by liberal contributions of money and fancy articles and by their presence on the several nights.

Those who deserve special credit for their assistance are Messrs. William Rehling and the Misses Wendlenburg.

Among the other Presbyterian ladies whose names have not yet been monitoned, are Miss Mary Camp, Mrs. Ceta Scott, Miss Annie Adams, Mrs. Van Deventer, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Willis Donnan, about a year ago, got up a book on cooking on behalf of the Presbyterian ladies.

terian ladies.

The book was sold at the buzaar for the Young Men's Christian Association list winter, but when the sale had reached three thousand the book was withdrawn.

It is now again for sale at the Carnaval, and the ladies expect to realize a nice amount of money from the book. Each copy costs only twenty-five cents.

THANKS FOR DONATIONS.

THANKS FOR DONATIONS.

The ladies of the tobacco ship "Sultan" wish to thank the following gentlemen for their generous donations: Messrs, Allen & Ginter, Kinney Tobacco Company, Cameron & Cameron, T. C. Williams, the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company; the J. B. Face Tobacco Company; W. W. Russel, C. W. Winny Whittle, Sydnor & Company; Roykin, Selden & Company; K. J. Christian: Joseph Pill, W. J. Yarborough & Sons; P. H. Mayo & Brother: James Kerney; J. M. Collingworth; W. T. Hancock, Hardgrove & Company; P. Whitlock & Company; George Schoen, Julian Carr, of Durham; Butler & Bosher, J. W. Wright & Company; Larus Brothers Mr. Paylaress; Mr. Howard: Herman Schmidt; Oscar Cranz, W. L. Fleming; C. L. Brown.

The crowd that visited the Carnaval on Priday night was larger than on any previous might. From 8:30 until 16 o'clock not a single person could gain admission to the building.

The heat inside was great, and several ladies and children fainted, but were revived within a few minutes.

Quite a number of boys, who could not obtain admittance, made use of the timber in the yard and climbed up to the window to get a glance at the nimnet, which was then in progress on the stage.

All at once some of the mischievous boys started the cry of fire, which, however, was not heard on the inside, otherwise a panic would have been unavoidable.

To prevent a repetition of this criminal conduct, a gentleman, who happened to be a witness to it, called up the police-station and as ked for reinforcements.

Soon after ten additional policemen appeared and surrounded the building.

All the doors were then opened and guarded by the police.

The sales in the different ships were very large that night, and the restaurant and demonade paython were unable to supply all the wants.

The restaurant was completely eaten out, and the supplies in Mrs. Branch's lemonade paython was run out long before the entertasament came to a close.

To give outsiders an idea of the amount of work that falls to the ladies who self the lemonade and sod water, it may be stated that Mrs. C. M. Branch, who is in charge of the stand, uses every day from one and a half to two boxes of lemons, fifteen gallons of sods water, five gallons ices, and three gallons of syrups of various kinds.

The quantities of provisions that are being gallous ices, and three gallons of syrups of various kinds.

The quantities of provisions that are being used in the restaurant every day are also astonishing. It is stated by Mrs. T. J. Todd, who is in charge of the restaurant, that the ladies use every day about ten gallons of cysters, twenty dozen eggs, four or five rossts, both beef and lamb, from four to five dozen of chicken, and any quantity of bread and nake, and about forty gallons of ice cream.

The ladies are very anxious to place this matter before the public, in order that all who feel so disposed might continue to send contributions to the tabernacle, and they are especially anxious that they might receive fresh bread every day.

The lighthouse, where the flowers are being sold, is growing in popularity every day, and its receipts are helping the general funds considerably. Almost daily large contributions of flowers are received from the Richmond Floral Company, and donations are sent from Parmville, and even New York has furnished flowers, sent by Mr. Stephenson.

ELEGANT SUPPER.

On Friday night, at the close of the entertainment, Mrs. C. M. Branch gave an elegant support to the young ladies who are so industriously assisting her in the sale of lemonade and soda. The affair took place in the restaurant, and the following ladies participated in the support Mrs. Charles Hutcheson, Mrs. Nins Fignett, Miss Maggie Childrey, Miss Fignett, Miss Ellie Frayser, Miss Floyd.

Bass, Miss Lottie Hartman, Miss Irene Bessieux, Miss Isabella Weisiger, Miss Annie Keesee, Miss Laura Lyon.

The affair was a very successful one, and Mrs. Branch intends to give another before the close of the Carnaval.

An elegant supper will be given to-morrow night at the close of the entertainment to the ladies and gentlemen who take part in Monday's performance. The guests will appear in evening dress and covers will be laid for sixteen.

A matines will be given to-morrow afterneon to the pupils of the various Sunday schools in this city, for which a very fine pro-gramme has been arranged by Mrs. R. L. Nor-ris, the chairman of the Entertainment Committee.

Shoriff D. S. Cates purchased five hundred tickets of the performance the other day, which he presented to the Sunday schools.
To-morrow night a comedicate will be given entitled "Who's to Win Him?" The characters will be as follows:

Mrs. Harrington ...

Yesterday's matinee attracted a full house, and the children especially were numerously represented to witness the performance of the May Queen. The principal part in the play, the Queen, was represented by little Mes Nannie C. The entertainment last night was by far the best one that has been given during the Car-

It was a fan drill and minuet, led by Mrs.

On secount of the rain-storm that broke out about 8 o'clock some of the ladies were late in their arrival, and the commencement was delayed nearly one hour.

The public, however, waited patiently, and they were amply rewarded by the beautiful spectacle that was witnessed by the many large that was witnessed by the many

The minuet was led by Mrs. H. A. Tabb and Miss Nellie Parker, followed by Misses Carrie Moore, Bertha Pleasants, Miss Imogene Morris and Miss Bradley. The next four ladies were Mrs. C. C. Walker, Miss Park Bagby, Miss Mary Yancey and Miss Alice Henning, while Miss Sallie Marshall and Miss Jennie Beoock brought up the rear.

The ladies were nearly all white or lighteolored dresses, and looked very stately and graceful.

The minust was followed by the fan drill proper, which contained the following movements:

STAGE MANAGEMENT,

Mr. W. A. Graves, stage manager of the Mozart Academy, has kindly given his services to the ladies, and acts as efficient stage manager, assisted by Jake Metter.

Major Poe very kindly sent the lady managers three additional policemen last night, and Captain Angle was also there to see that everything went on without a hitch.

The lemonade pavilion did a flourishing business last night and will no doubt realize a very handsome amount at the end of the season.

Son.

The ladies at the paylien have to work very hard, and ever since the beginning they have drawn into requisition the services of Messrs, C. M. and John Branch, who have shown a great willingness to assist them as much as they can.

Colonel and Mrs. A. G. Dickinson, parents of Mrs. R. L. Morris, arrived yesterday morning from New York city to take part in the Joys of the Carnaval de la Mer during the next week.

Mr. Malcolm Shakleford, who took part in Mr. Malcolm Shalleford, who took part in the minstrel performance of last Thursday night, carried off the polin of that night. He has been asked to join that amateur minstrel troupe, but has not yet decided the matter. The Turkish ship Sultan is patronized very liberally, and its delicious coffee, which is served in Turkish cups for the sum of twenty-five cents, forms a great attraction. The cups are given with the coffee as souvenirs.

BUSING BUSINESS.

The Pinafore is doing a rushing business in candies, and Huyler's brand especially is in great demand: the young ladies are very bewitching and show a rare ingenuity to attract every young man who comes in their reach, and by sweet persuasion and still sweeter smiles, compel him to surrender his purse, or at least a part of its contents, for a box of candy.

The stately Merrimae still holds for at least a part of its contents, for a box of candy.

The stately Merrimae still holds fort, notwithstanding the many attacks on the part of the public that have been attempting to climb into its ringing to get a better view of what is going on on the stage.

The ladies are doing a thriving business, presumably on account of their well-known amiability. Some of the ladies still feel somewhat sore that they had to submit their preference for the British hou to the more justified pretension of the American eagle. It is to be hoped, however, that by the time when the Carnaval closes everybody will be perfectly at peace.

The ladies at the head of the auxiliary department will start in with renewed supplies to-morrow morning and prepare a very inviting dinner for the gentlemen who will give them a call. The bill of fare is as follows:

Chicken consomme, roast beef, fricasse chicken, maccaroni with tomate sauce, baked tomatoes, cream potatoes, green peas; desert, ice-cream.

MR. GRYMES TAKEN TO JAIL.

No New Motion for Bail Made in His Behalf.

MR. BOUDAR'S PARTIAL REPORT MADE. Mayor Ellyson Says He Has Not Yet Verified

It and Will Therefore Not Make It Public.

E. Buford Grymes was yesterday placed in the custody of the City Sergeant and taken to the city jail.

Judge Witt yesterday morning after Mr.

Grymes had spent the night before in the police station, directed that the latter be brought to the Hustings Court. This was done, and Mr. Grymes remained in conference with his lawyers for some time. Finally Hon, George D. Wise, one of the counsel, stated to Judge Witt that he had no motion to make, and accordingly Mr. Grymes was to make, and accordingly Mr. Grymes was given into the custody of the City Sergeant and both left the City Hall.

The prisoner was allowed to go to his residence to see his family, after which he was conducted to jail.

It is very evident that Messrs. Campbell and Page, the two bondsmen who surrendered Mr. Grymes, did so on account of the rumors that have been circulated about Mr. Grymes' shortage, and because of the report that the ex-clerk was in Charlottesville.

He never visited that city, however, but daily wrote to his wife from his brother-inlaw's at Big Island, above Lynchburg, where, it is said, the bondsmen had consented for him to visit.

it is said, the bondsmen had consented for him to visit.

Mr. H. M. Smith, Jr., in conversation with a Times reporter yesterday, said the impression that he had allowed Mr. Grymes to go to Big Island was wrong, that he had nothing to say in the matter whatsoever, inasmoch as the ex-clerk, as soon as he was bailed, was in the hands of his bondsmen.

Mr. Bondar submitted a partial report to Mayor Ellyson vesterday morning as to books of certain city officials, but will not give a full report for three or four days yet.

Mayor Ellyson was in consultation yesterday, at his office, with City Attorney Meredith, Auditor Turpin and other city officials, but nothing was made public.

Mr. Bondar has progressed far enough in his expert work to be able to know how the books stand, and it is generally acknowledged about the City Hall that he has found large discrepancies in several accounts.

about the City Hall that he has round anged discrepancies in several accounts.

Mayor Ellyson was asked about the report last night, but said he was not able at present to make anything public, and added a significant remark:

"When I receive these reports I have to verify them, and as yet I have not done so."

Dunlap's Cable News Company

Since the establishment of this cable company in December, 1889, they have entirely revolutionized the principle of foreign news service. They were the first to recognize the desirability of treating foreign matter in the same manner that the American papers treatlocal matters. They have placed live American newspaper men, who have been engaged on New York newspapers for years, in the large cities of Europe, and never hesitate at the number of words necessary to make the stories complete, receiving from London single stories running from 3,000 to 5,000 words actually cabled.

No other news company in existence has used the cable with such effectiveness and lavishness.

THE POPULAR STORE.

We are seeking for more trade, but we don't claimer for it. We ask for it in a neat, modest way, and we know that that will bring it.

The good people of Richmond know us. They know that we are merchants "of them, with them, for thein;" they know further that we are live, progressive merchants, and they know still further that what we contract to do we do. We are business people, and we do business on business principle.

Our purpose in this announcement is to bring before you certain values in certain lines of goods we keep. They are not goods you can goods away; we don't claim to SING our goods away; we don't claim to SING our goods away; we don't claim to give them away; we don't even claim to sell them for a mere pittance. Value must be given for value. We claim but one thing, and that is honest, square dealing. When a price comes from Miller & Rhoads it's honest and square; when a bargain comes from Miller & Rhoads it's honest and square; for what we mean.

This is a good illustration, ladies. We didn't mention that they were ALL-WOOL—and they are not. They are only half-wool, but they look like all-wool, and the best of all-wool, too.
